Limited Consent for DNA Testing

It is not necessary to report an offense to a law enforcement agency in order to obtain forensic DNA testing of biological evidence collected during your forensic medical examination. However, if you authorize forensic DNA testing of the biological evidence collected during your examination without reporting the offense to law enforcement, any results of the forensic DNA testing will not be compared to DNA profiles maintained in DNA databases and will not be subject to use in a criminal investigation or trial.

I understand that I must report the offense to law enforcement in order to have the results of forensic DNA testing compared to DNA profiles maintained in DNA databases and used in a criminal investigation or trial.
