TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY—UNIFORM CRIME REPORTING

CRIME IN TEXAS : 2003

Annual Report of 2003 UCR Data Collection: Crime in Texas 2003 Overview

The major crime rate in Texas decreased slightly in 2003, according to data compiled by the Texas Department of Public Safety Uniform Crime Reporting Program.

Compared with 2002, the crime rate—the number of crimes per 100,000 population in Texas—decreased 1 percent in 2003. The violent crime rate decreased 4.7 percent in 2003 from 2002. The property crime rate decreased 0.5 percent in 2003.

“Although the crime rate decreased only slightly in 2003, we still have a lot of work to do. Law enforcement and the public must continue to work together to fight crime,” said Col. Thomas A. Davis, Jr., Director of the DPS.

The total number of major crimes committed was up 0.5 percent in 2003 compared with 2002. Of the seven index crimes, murder was up 8.6 percent; rape was down 6.5 percent.

The total number of arrests in Texas increased 1.6 percent in 2003. The number of juvenile arrests increased 2.3 percent, while adult arrests increased 1.4 percent.

The Texas Uniform Crime Reporting Program also collects statistics on hate crimes and family violence incidents.

In 2003, Texas law enforcement agencies reported 295 incidents of hate crimes involving 298 victims and 326 offenders.

Law enforcement agencies reported 185,299 family violence incidents involving 199,444 victims and 195,354 offenders in 2003.

STATISTICAL CRIME ANALYSIS

The UCR Program

In an effort to quantify the increases and decreases in the number of crimes committed in Texas, the Uniform Crime Reporting program (UCR) collects reports of crimes and arrests from Texas law enforcement agencies. This information is printed in Crime in Texas and in periodic special news releases.

Crime Index

To track the variations in crime, the UCR data collection program uses a statistical summary tool referred to as the Crime Index. Rather than collecting reports of all crimes that were committed in a particular year, UCR collects the reports of seven index crimes. The crimes in this group are all serious, either by their very nature or because of the frequency with which they occur, and present a common enforcement problem to police agencies. Crimes within this index can be further categorized as violent crimes, which include murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault, or as property crimes, which consist of burglary, larceny-theft and motor vehicle theft. By reducing the overall occurrence of crime to this Crime Index, the annual comparison of crime trends is simplified. Although arson is an index crime in that the number of reported offenses are collected, arson is not included in the Crime Index.

Index Crime Volume

The total estimated number of Index Crimes reported for 2003 was 1,137,806. This volume of crime represents an increase of 0.5 percent when compared to 2002.

Index Crime Rate

The crime rate reported by UCR is defined as the number of crimes committed per 100,000 population. This mechanism allows comparisons between periods of time to be made without being affected by population swings. For 2003, the Texas Crime Rate was 5144.1 crimes per 100,000 population, a 1.0% decrease from 2002. The crime rate is based on the 2003 Texas population of 22,118,509.

Data Estimation

Although the Texas UCR program enjoys a high rate of participation among Texas' law enforcement community, not every agency reports its crime information. To provide data that is comparable to other years, it is necessary to estimate the information for non-reporting agencies. In 2003, 998 law enforcement agencies participated in the UCR program representing 99.8 percent of the population.

HATE CRIME

The Texas Hate Crime Act defines hate crimes as crimes motivated by prejudice and hatred, including incidents for which statistics are kept under the federal Hate Crimes Statistics Act. The federal law defines hate crimes as crimes that manifest evidence of prejudice based on race, religion, sexual orientation, ethnicity or disability.

The Texas Hate Crimes Act directs every law enforcement agency within Texas to report bias offenses to the Department of Public Safety.

Bias Motivation

The largest percentage of hate crime reports were racial in nature. The second largest was ethnicity/national origin. The third most common form of hate crime was sexual orientation. The fourth most common bias was religious.

Offenses

Offenses in the hate crime data collection program are defined in accordance with federal Uniform Crime Reporting definitions and do not necessarily conform to Texas state definitions. Complete offense definitions are available in the Crime in Texas annual publication or from UCR upon request.

Hate Crime offense information falls into the eight index crimes—murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft and arson—plus simple assault, intimidation and vandalism. Of these offense categories, aggravated assault, simple assault, intimidation and vandalism accounted for 81 percent of all bias crime offenses in 2003.

Information on the victims of hate crimes is limited to victim type. While the bias motivation information identifies the offender’s bias, the victim may not actually belong to the group the offender sought to harm. For this reason, information on the victim’s group membership is not recorded.

Victim type in the hate crime data collection program is listed as: individual, business, financial institution, government, religious organization, society/public, other and unknown. Of the victim types, individuals were the main hate crime target.

FAMILY VIOLENCE

The Texas Family Code defines family violence as an act by a member of a family or household against another member that is intended to result in physical harm, bodily injury, assault, or a threat that reasonably places the member in fear of imminent physical harm. The law excludes the reasonable discipline of a child. By definition "Family" includes individuals related by consanguinity (blood) or affinity, (marriage or former marriage), biological parents of the same child, foster children, foster parents, and members or former members of the same household (including roommates). Senate Bill 68 of the 77th Legislature amended the Family Code to include "Dating Violence". The "Dating Relationship" means a relationship between individuals who have or have had a continuing relationship of a romantic or intimate nature.

Offenders

In 2003, a reported 195,354 offenders were involved in incidents of family violence.

Victims

Incidents of family violence in 2003 involved a reported 199,444 victims.

Officers

Potential assaults on peace officers are a serious problem inherent to police intervention and investigation of family violence. In 2003, during the course of reported family violence incidents, 572 Texas law officers were assaulted. During this same period 5,036 assaults were made on law officers during all types of police activity.

Offenses

Family violence offense information falls into six general categories: assaults, homicides, kidnapping/abductions, robberies, forcible sex offenses, and non-forcible sex offenses. Of the six main categories, assaults accounted for 97 percent of all offenses.

Injuries

The extent of injuries sustained by victims of family violence are determined by the responding officer. Therefore, all injuries are noted at the time of the report. If later medical attention indicates that the injuries were more or less severe than noted by the responding officer, this information is not included in the family violence report. The majority of reported injuries (52 percent) were minor; in 44 percent of family violence reports "no injury" was recorded. Major injuries were reported in 4 percent of the cases. Of the major injuries, severe lacerations were the most common at 38 percent. Possible internal injuries were reported in 37 percent of the cases and apparent broken bones were noted in 13 percent of the cases.

Type of Family Violence Injuries

Family Violence Major Injuries

Weapons

The most common weapon involved in family violence cases was physical force through the use of hands, feet and fists (strong arm), which accounts for 77 percent of the incidents. The Texas Family Violence law considers the use of threats and intimidation to be serious enough to report and, thus, 9 percent of the reports were listed as involving no weapons. Knives or cutting instruments (4 percent), blunt objects (3 percent), firearms (2 percent) and other (5 percent) account for the remaining cases. Included in the "other" weapons category are: motor vehicles, poison, explosives, fire, drugs, unknown, and miscellaneous weapons.
